LEGENDARY K-ZONERS DOING LEGENDARY THINGS.

KID CURATOR

Name: Jonah

Heroic feat: He is one of three Kid Curators chosen for Sea Monsters: Prehistoric Ocean Predators at the Australian National Maritime Museum. The exhibition is open until April 27, 2020!

FAST FOUR WITH JONAH

KZ: Hi Jonah! Why did you want to be a Kid Curator, and what did you do in the role?

J: I wanted to learn about sea monsters, and teach people too. I also thought it would be exciting and fun to be featured in a museum, and go to Sydney for the first time. I wrote pages upon pages of fun facts about sea monsters and how they lived, which took around two months. I also answered questions about sea monsters at the exhibit, and spoke to Channel 7 and Channel 9.

KZ: Did you learn anything new while being Kid Curator, or meet any experts?

J: I learned plenty of fun facts about sea monsters, like the fact the Mosasaur was a cannibal, and one was found with three smaller Mosasaurs in its stomach. I met a paleontologist called Espen, who was the first paleontologist I've ever met. I talked to Espen and picked his brain while I was there.

KZ: What is your favourite exhibit?

J: The giant Xiphactinus skeleton! It's my favourite prehistoric sea monster, because it was a cannibal and could open its mouth almost 90 degrees. The Xiphactinus looked similar to a Goliath Tigerfish.

KZ: What would you say to K-Zoners who are thinking about visiting the exhibition?

J: Check it out! There are interesting facts about prehistoric sea monsters, and you will find exciting information to read. You gain deeper knowledge about what lived under the water over 66 million years ago, and how it has changed over time.

NEWS FEED

BITE-SIZED NEWS FOR HUNGRY MINDS!

SPACE NEWS

Astronomers have used the European Southern Observatory's Very Large Telescope in Chile to possibly discover the smallest dwarf planet in the solar system. Hygiea, an asteroid 430km in diameter, is the new contender. Earth's diameter is over 29 times that size! Whether Hygiea can officially take the crown from the dwarf planet Ceres (which has a diameter of almost 950km) is up to the International Astronomical Union.

HEALTH NEWS

A group of engineers from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) have designed an amazing double-sided tape for internal tissues, like skin and organs. Their inspiration? Spiders! The researchers needed to join wet surfaces, like the flesh around a wound. The way that spiders create a sticky material to absorb water from the surface of their prey was a breakthrough for the team. Their new tape can hopefully be used instead of sutures (a fine thread or stitch) and stop pain, scars and problems after surgery.

IDEAS LAB

SCIENCE, TECHNOLOGY, ENGINEERING, ART AND MATHS!

Meet Mathieu Ravier, Chief Experience Officer for the National Film and Sound Archive of Australia (NFSA). Game Masters: The Exhibition has turned the NFSA into Australia's biggest arcade and is open until March 9, 2020!

KZ: Hi Matt! What experience did you have before this role?

M: Before moving to Australia, I lived all around the world, in France, the US, Canada, England, Hong Kong, and Japan. My studies taught me how to run organisations designed to share culture. I worked in film festivals and museums.

KZ: Why did you choose this industry?

M: I grew up watching a lot of movies. Not just the big, popular ones, but films made in other languages, by people with different cultures to my own. I got a glimpse into other people's lives and it helped me decide who I wanted to be. I realised that art can comfort us, challenge us and make us think differently about the world.

KZ: Did you have any hobbies as a child that helped with your career?

M: As a kid, I was less into sports and more into books and movies. Growing up, I started writing stories, making short films and organising parties for friends. As an adult, I organised film festivals, events and exhibitions, helping creative people share their work. It's the best job in the world!

KZ: What did you do in Game Masters: The Exhibition?

M: Game Masters is a big show from the US that travelled here by rail and ship in four truck-sized containers. My team worked hard for weeks to install it. We ensure visitors have a great time and leave with a better understanding of the game design process. We also organise workshops for schools!

KZ: Should K-Zoners visit?

M: Yes, it's the best! You get to play 80 games, but your parents are happy you're in a museum! You discover how the games were made, watch interviews with designers and see how gaming has evolved. If you're interested in designing games, you'll hear from successful creators too.

KZ: Any advice for K-Zoners who want to work in a similar role?

M: Be curious and visit as many museums as you can. Tell people that work there what you're interested in and ask for exhibitions based on your interests. Nothing is too weird or obscure! There's something magical about sharing your passion with the world.

SURVIVING

FOLLOW THESE EASY STEPS AND YOU MIGHT MAKE IT OUT OF THE GAME! MAYBE...

TOP TIP

Don't enter any magical videogames that trap you until you complete the levels, especially if the game is broken.

JUNGLE RAVINES

Watch out for any killer pythons and defensive hippos. These creatures are known to be keen to attack new players, and particularly stealthy. Having an avatar with strengths in fearlessness, climbing, karate or acrobatics is advisable as the jungle terrain and ravines call for a lot of level-based movement at a great height.

PRO TIP: Steer clear of areas that belong to mandrills. These monkeys are territorial and will attack. Getting away fast is recommended, as very few players have the necessary skill set for fighting a mandrill pack. If you must move through a ravine via a series of rickety bridges, bringing a hyper-intelligent horse might help.

ARID DESERT

Find desert-dwelling animals (like camels) that you can befriend in order to speed up your journey. Zoology and linguistics skills come in handy here, especially if you want to be polite and address the camel by its first name. If you are playing co-op, work together with your team to get out of the sandy trap. Check if anyone has driving skills (in case you can find useful vehicles), or strengths in geography and cartography. If you're playing solo, just keep moving and don't get distracted! Try to avoid having weaknesses relating to endurance, sun, heat, or sand. If it's too late... We're sorry.

PRO TIP: Avoid aggressive ostriches, especially if they start to blink into existence suddenly, out of nowhere, in rapidly increasing numbers until there's a terrifying giant ostrich stampede.

JUMANJI

ICY MOUNTAINS

With the altitude and freezing temperatures against you, find shelter and warmth wherever you can. Don't underestimate the importance of gearing up for the snow – even an avatar without weaknesses will need a slightly longer sleeve in these conditions.

PRO TIP: Be careful when meeting any new people, as certain citizens of Jumanji can be dangerous. Who wouldn't get a little cranky with icicles hanging on their clothes? Some of the non-playable characters will be keen to throw down, and could be a lot stronger than you expect. After all, how do you know who to trust? However, some may be able to help you on your mission, and be sympathetic to your cause – or work with you for a price.

WILD ADVENTURES

*Jumanji:
The Next Level
hits cinemas
December 26!*

PIGEON HOLE

WE EXPLAIN WHY PIGEONS MAKE BETTER SPIES THAN HUMANS!

ECONOMICALLY SPEAKING

Have you seen the gadgets and odd bobs used by secret agents? It's a lot of loot to carry, and it's expensive! How many birds have you seen wearing a utility belt, or using a grappling hook? None, obviously! No baggage; no problems. Who needs high tech weapons when you're an avian agent with the power of poop? Need to throw off a pursuer? Dump a bit of bird poop in their path! Use it to temporarily blind an attacker, or gross them out so badly that they flee.

APEX PREDATOR

OK, so pigeons aren't exactly top of the food chain, but the feral birds are a prime option for a human agent – whether they planned on becoming a pigeon or not. It's fair to say that these feathered friends have a bad rap, but they are very unassuming creatures. Pigeons are highly intelligent and great navigators, with a 340-degree field of view that leaves the human eye in the dust. Combine these abilities and you have a super spy who can hide in plain sight. Just try to track one specific pigeon in a flock!

WILD SPIES

Spies In Disguise
flies into cinemas
January 1!

HERO 2 HERO

RDJ IS TAKING ON A NEW HERO, BUT HOW DO TONY AND DOLITTLE COMPARE?

TONY STARK

Tony Stark is a genius inventor, billionaire, and industrialist, also known as Iron Man. With his wealth and advanced intelligence, Tony was well-known before he became a high-tech flying hero.

After creating and using an armoured suit to protect others, Tony's actions as a hero and founding member of the Avengers made him one of the most recognisable people in the world.

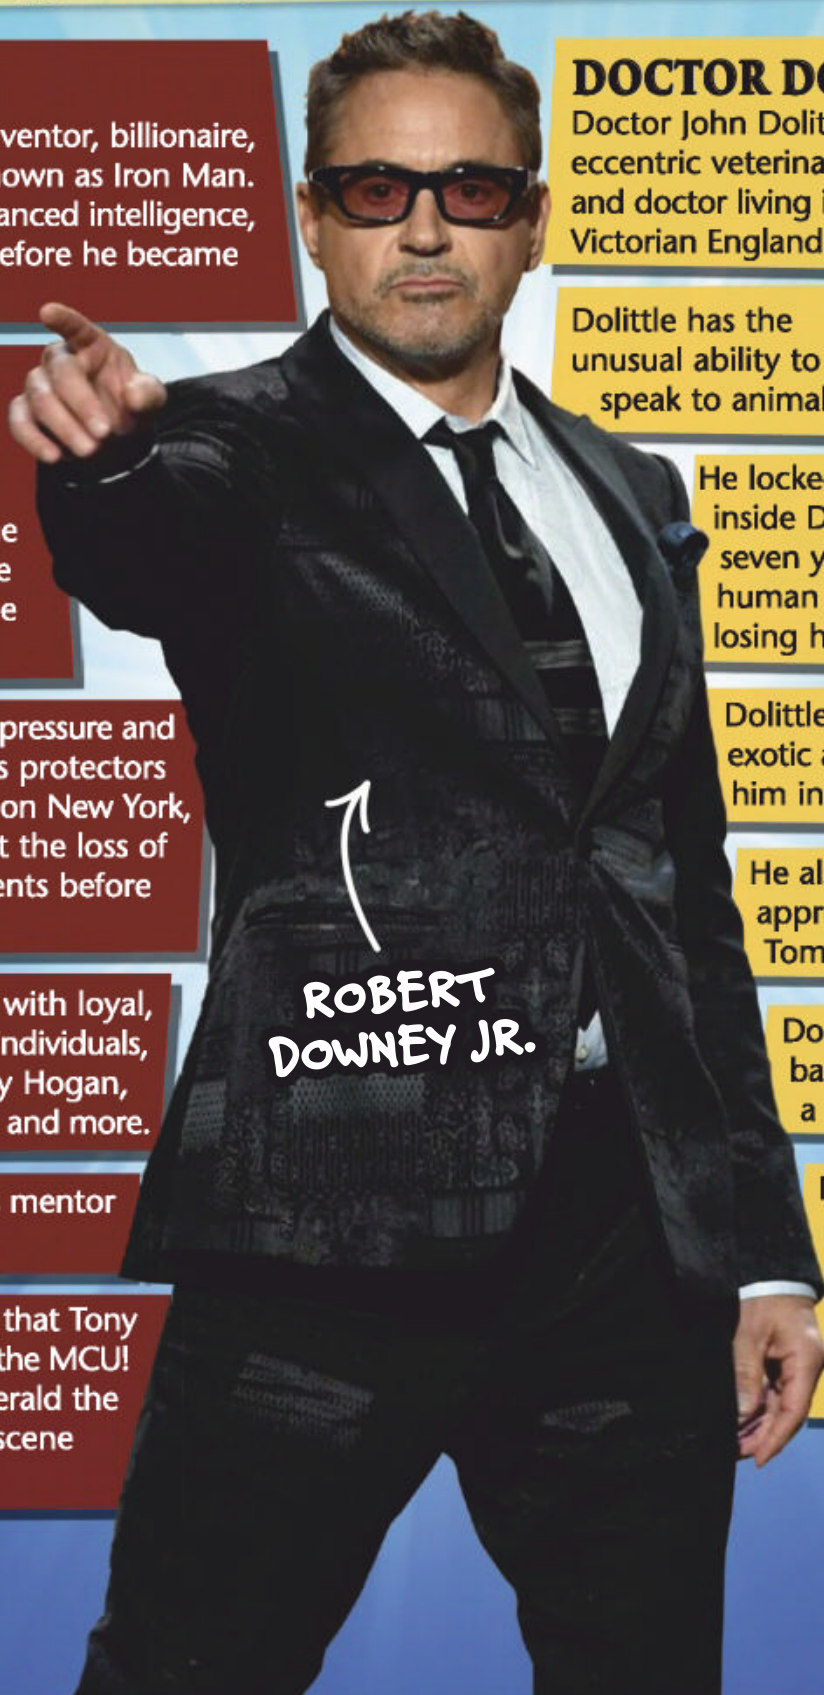

Tony struggled with the pressure and his role as one of Earth's protectors after the Chitauri attack on New York, learning the truth about the loss of his parents, and the events before and after the Snap.

Tony surrounds himself with loyal, intelligent and talented individuals, like Pepper Potts, Happy Hogan, the Avengers, F.R.I.D.A.Y. and more.

He acts as Peter Parker's mentor after he gains powers.

We can't think of a time that Tony interacts with animals in the MCU! The only possibility is Gerald the alpaca, from a deleted scene in Avengers: Endgame.

WILD POWERS

DOCTOR DOLITTLE

Doctor John Dolittle is a famed eccentric veterinarian and doctor living in Victorian England.

Dolittle has the unusual ability to speak to animals.

DID YOU KNOW?

Tom Holland, AKA Spider-Man, plays the voice of Jip the dog in Dolittle!

He locked himself away inside Dolittle Manor for seven years without any human company, after losing his wife.

Dolittle's menagerie of exotic animals lives with him in the Manor.

He also has a human apprentice, called Tommy Stubbins.

Dolittle rides on the back of Plimpton, a giant ostrich.

Dolittle must sail to a mythical island to find a cure for the young Queen's grave illness.

Dolittle hits cinemas January 16!

NEXT LEVEL ADVENTURE

READY TO EXPLORE? HERE ARE SOME USEFUL BASIC TOOLS!

GO WILD

MAGNIFYING GLASS

Extend the magnifying glass to take a closer look. You might want to analyse the veins on a leaf, or examine an insect in detail!

WRISTBAND

Keep your adventure tools securely on your wrist!

COMPASS

Hold the compass face up and flat in front of you to navigate. The magnetic pin will point to north, which means you can figure out if you are heading north, south, east or west!

MIRROR

Peel off the plastic film to reveal a small mirror. If you're lost in the wild, a mirror can be used to reflect sunlight and create a signal that attracts attention!

SUNDIAL

Before clocks were invented, sundials were the main instrument used to tell time! The thin rod (or 'gnomon') casts a shadow on the flat plate (the 'dial') that aligns with the different 'hour-lines' depending on the sun's position in the sky.

THE UNTAMED

FORMER NRL PLAYER DANIEL VIDOT IS RISING UP THE WWE RANKS!

DANIEL VIDOT

WILD SUPERSTAR

I'm known as The Untamed, which means just letting your wild side run free. The main message is to basically to be your own boss and not let anyone control you or dictate what you do.

I actually love watching NRL more now that I don't play it. I've always gone for the Brisbane Broncos. That was my team since I was a young fella. I was fortunate enough to live my dream.

There are moves I bring from the rugby field into the ring. You've got to be strong, able to lift people, and able to move well. Rugby league teaches you to be aware of your surroundings and that's one of the biggest things in wrestling.

I used to go on the trampoline and try to chuck people off. It's crazy to think back and look at what I'm doing now. I met The Rock, John Cena and all the people I watched. It's motivated me more and made the fire inside me even brighter.

Meeting The Rock was life changing. He's a humble guy; I've always idolised him. Being Samoan heritage as well, he explained how much the culture meant to him and it was really cool that we were able to compare certain things.

In 2020, my main goal is to get on TV with NXT. I want to pave my way into Smackdown or RAW. Gotta keep training, working hard and putting in time to get there.

I read K-Zone when I was a kid, and I encourage K-Zoners to go for their dreams. To me, superheroes are real. If you want something, go for it no matter what anyone says. Be untamed.

Want more minigames and maximum fun? Try Disney Tsum Tsum Festival!

► SPEED NEED

Racing games are some of the most fun pick-up-and-play options, and karters are our favourite. Crash Team Racing Nitro-Fueled is a Mario Kart style racer that's always lots of fun for dogged pursuers. For hilarious high-speed hijinks, try Garfield Kart – Furious Racing and race right by Palerock Lake and Pastacosi Factory!

Younger K-Zoners can kick into gear in Party Racer!

► PLATFORMER PARTY

Throw a perfect platformer party in Super Mario Maker 2. Race together on official or fan favourite levels, then try out some full-throttle competitive platforming in Let's Go Nuts! Race in one (or more) of the 40 stages on offer, in order to squirrel your way across platforms to that important finish line first!

Looking for another puzzling platformer? Play the trio co-op in Trine 4!

► GOOD COOKIN'

Here's another reason to grab an extra (delicious) bite of co-op Overcooked 2 – with the Carnival of Chaos DLC! It tosses in a cannon for extra explosive dishes. If you're searching for some Overcooked style gameplay outside the kitchen, race against mates to renovate a strange skyscraper full of secrets in Tools Up!

Turn up the heat with Overcooked 2! DLC in Night of the Hangry Horde!

► FOOT(Y) FIGHT

You're a FIFA 20 supporter, and your friend is an eFootball PES 2020 fan. No matter which team you are on, you have got the perf party game! Time to either show your mates the ropes in PES 2020 or FIFA 20, or co-op play, banging nets together. Finally, go head to head and see whose boot rules the day.

For all sorts of sports, try Mario & Sonic at the Olympic Games Tokyo 2020!

► TIRED LIMBS

If you're pepped up and full of beans, it's time to shake it all out at the party with Just Dance 2020. You and up to five other mates can start your own lounge-room dance floor to get the party cranking. After that, keep everyone's adrenaline pumping with head-smart, arm-strong co-op antics in Heave Ho! LOLs are guaranteed!

DID YOU KNOW?

The game's developer, SMG Studio, has the majority of its studios (66%) in Australia, located in Sydney and Melbourne. These clever cats previously made rad mobile games, and built the cube-loving co-op puzzler, Death Squared. Teamwork makes the dream work in Death Squared, unless you want to see your robots go boom!

MOVING OUT

Don't pout, and deffo don't scream and shout. Before you know it, you'll be grooving while moving mad stacks of stuff in Moving Out!

We're huge fans of couch co-op games, so why not create a couch co-op game where you move couches (plus stacks of other stuff)? That's Moving Out! You and your moving mates should totally best the bonkers tutorial, in order to be legitimate Furniture Arrangement and Relocation Technicians, or 'FARTs' for short. Moving Out will make you think outside the (moving) box. Sneak a few giant giraffes out of a zoo, and after that, it's up to your personal approval for how you run the removal. Is there a wall in your way? Smash and tear it down. Need to shift an item outside? Just go ahead and toss it right out the window. Certain stages will let you use portals to teleport things too. You can shift things around solo, but really, you want to jump into a co-op team with up to four mad movers. The more you move through all the levels, the more intense everything will get. Eventually, you will even end up moving items in outer space, which is pretty awesome!

DID YOU KNOW?

Before it was rehydrated, SpongeBob SquarePants: Battle for Bikini Bottom was regularly hydrated. Translation: we're saying the game was first released many years ago. If it was a person, it would have just celebrated its 16th birthday.

SPONGEBOB SQUAREPANTS: BATTLE FOR BIKINI BOTTOM – REHYDRATED

SpongeBob and pals better get wetter to get to the bottom of this Bikini Bottom brawl!

Pesky Plankton is up to his old criminal tricks again. This time, he has an army of big bad robots. Some have shocking skills like, uhh, shocking you, and others have giant hammer arms for trying to splatter SpongeBob – and his friends. That's right, SpongeBob isn't alone in this battle. He also has the help of his underwater besties, Sandy and Patrick. Poor Patrick has actually managed to lose so many socks, the stinky secrets are treasures in Battle for Bikini Bottom – Rehydrated. This Rehydrated romp isn't just a familiar splash of old-school awesome. The game has got a shiny new look (obvs), and also a new couch co-op horde mode against waves of enemies. There's some restored content clipped from the original game too, like a dramatic Bikini Bottom boss battle against Robo Squidward. In classic style, Squidward can't catch a break! When the cantankerous Krusty Krab cashier isn't appearing as a robo-boss, he's busy getting stung by (totes jelly) jellyfish.

PRO TIP!

The four playable heroes have unique abilities, which means some are better suited for certain fights and puzzles than others. Match your preferred play style to your fave character, then use their abilities against the challenges they can tackle best!

JUMANJI: THE VIDEO GAME

You'll find that the welcome to the jungle in Jumanji: The Video Game isn't the kind of hello you would like to experience in real life!

Jumanji: The Video Game is the only videogame-within-a-videogame that has 'Video Game' in the title. By now you should've seen Jumanji: Welcome to the Jungle, plus the orig Jumanji, and be ready for Jumanji: The Next Level. All of that Jumanji knowledge is critical for helping you get out of this tricky situation. The adventure is conquerable solo, but it is a party best played with pals, so nab jewels, solve puzzles and drop fools. There will be IRL LOLs when epic fails lead to hilarious tales. Mostly, you'll want to spin it around on all the baddies, especially with Ruby Roundhouse. Her surname isn't because she lives in a round house – it's obviously all about her boot-tastic roundhouse kicks! You can also combo Finbar's ranged skills with Smolder Bravestone's rage kills. Just be sure to keep Sheldon 'Shelly' Oberon away from a jungle stuffed with threats – like hungry hippos that seem to have a taste for professors.

PRO TIP!

The key to stacking big scores is dropping top ingredients loaded with enemies. This means leading them to an ingredient, loading it up, then dropping it. Their extra weight has the bonus of carrying ingredients through multiple floors. Try to start with the top ingredient for the best results!

BURGERTIME PARTY!

Crank up the heat on this sizzling food-building platformer that's deliciously easy to learn, but devilishly tricky to master! Anyone else getting hungry?

Games that are too EZ can feel like a fizzle, but BurgerTime Party! turns up the sizzle through steadily stacking challenges. The basics of chef school teach you to control Peter Pepper with pots, pans and platforming. It's all about the platforming. Dash over an ingredient and it will drop a level. Drop ingredients to score points. You will be stacking gold star level ratings in no time. Things get much spicier from there. Angry ingredients will pile out of the bin just to get in your way. Hot-headed hot dogs will follow your every move. Prickly pickles move in tricky, trashy patterns. Egg-stremely aggressive eggs shuffle around the levels in unpredictable ways. You can squish all the Pepper-sized food waste with the gigantic food items you are using to build burgers and hot dogs. You can always try co-op cooking for another fine dining option, or enter a tense cook-off for up to four chefs in Battle Burger! Ready, set, cook!

PRO TIP!

Keep an eye out for Tappables. Tap a Tappable a few times to mine resources for later crafting (or sharing). There are chances to score rare resources. For example, grass gives Grass and Dirt (obvs), but it could also reward you with different flowers, or a handy Water bucket. The Chest Tappables are the best Tappables. Don't. Stop. Tapping!

MINECRAFT EARTH

The biggest Minecraft adventure yet is playable at home, out and about, or even on your next road trip, with Minecraft Earth!

We love Minecraft and we love Pokémon GO. Craft these games together and you get Minecraft Earth. With your smartphone or tablet, turn IRL into 'IML' – In Minecraft Life! A few speedy taps will mine the right resources, and then you can get to work on the crafting part. Early on, you'll build smaller structures, but the more you collect, the more XP you mine and the more XP you score. Level up and unlock epic new builds, then tweak them on an IRL tabletop and blow them up to legit building size outside. Later, you can actually make them explode too, if that's your jam. Our favourite part is finding new Adventures to play. Adventures are rad quests that are larger than life – or, well, as large as life. Fight mobs or crack puzzles (like fixing a cart-camping chicken's rail track to send it home) to score loot. Get ready to explore two worlds at once!

BONUS PRO TIP!
 Invite your Minecraft mates to play Adventure with you. Bring up the scannable QR code on your screen, get 'em to scan it and share your next Minecraft Adventure! It's also time to share tasks. Whatever your friend grabs, you'll score it, too. Mind the mobs, then mine everything you need for your next epic build.

STAR WARS JEDI: FALLEN ORDER

With cool combat, epic exploration and sweet storytelling, you'll want to spend a long time in this galaxy!

In Star Wars Jedi: Fallen Order, you play as Cal Kestis, a young Padawan. He's playing a deadly game of hide-and-seek with the Empire. Luckily, he's got his droid bestie, BD-1, to help. Similar to R2-D2, BD-1 has tricks hidden up his metal sleeve, like scanning for an enemy's weak points and extra juicy story deets. He can chuck you extra health in a jam, and even become a pulley in a pinch for high speed ziplining! Cal has tricks of his own too. His Force powers are growing, and he knows his way around a lightsaber. You will help him crack epic puzzles in this mystery. Guide Cal from Padawan to Jedi Master. If you are only keen on the official Star Wars tale, jump into the Story Mode difficulty. For challenging brawls, Force jump the difficulty up a notch or two. Button mashing ain't the way to win here! Slow down. Breathe. Use the Force. Time your swings and blocks to succeed. Perfecting block timing will open baddies up for saber slashing, plus stacks of XP. Pour your upgrade points into amazing new skills to become the best Jedi ever!

PRO TIP!

Use the map, a lot. The more you explore, the more the map fills up. The more the map fills up, the more you can use the super handy icons to sniff out new secrets. Steer clear of the main path if you fancy exploring. There are stacks of rad unlocks to discover away from the main mission!

PRO TIP!

Stick to the main track if you want a chill downhill experience, or want to take in the sights. Otherwise, if you're chasing the fastest time, head off-trail. You can't speed off the edge and drop to the bottom, but you can bounce off cliff faces and boulders to shave precious seconds!

LONELY MOUNTAINS: DOWNHILL

The fastest way down a mountain is with a parachute. The second fastest way is making epic jumps on a mountain bike!

People usually brag about climbing mountains, but that's slow going as far as we're concerned. That's why we're all along for the ride in Lonely Mountains: Downhill. Mount a bike and tear down hilly tracks. Steer into the clear as you conquer tight trails through dense forests and stay dry next to raging rivers. You'll have to land jumps... or end up flying over the handlebars. Oh, and you'll deffo wanna master corner sliding to stay on the track. We love how Downhill's physics feel different depending on where you're riding. Plus, they let you slide through mud, power-pedal over massive gaps and bounce between big boulders. There are different bikes to unlock. Love speed? Prefer high drops? Favour off-track over on-trail? There's a bike for all of that! Match the right ride with your high-speed wheelie hikes, then use your quick flip reactions to stay on target and avoid flipping your bike.

You aren't going to need any magical instruments to awaken these legendary tips for The Legend of Zelda: Link's Awakening!

► FAIRY SURE

Use fairies to restore all health when it's low. Find three Fairy Bottles to do this more often! The first is a reward for helping the Ghost. The second is at the bottom of Mabe Village Fishing Pond. Score the last bottle by beating Dampé's Health Shortage Challenge.

► SEASHELL SECRETS

There are 50 Secret Seashells. Turn in five at Seashell Mansion (by Kanalet Castle in Ukuku Prairie) for a Heart Piece, and 15 for a Seashell Sensor. It's 30 and 50 for Chamber Stones, but 40 gets the Koholint Sword!

WILD SCIENCE

This unusual sight is a group of sperm whales taking a nap near Mauritius Island in the Indian Ocean! This photo was taken in November 2011, but researchers first witnessed this odd sleep behaviour in 2008. Scientists accidentally discovered a group of sleeping sperm whales when their boat drifted into a pod of six whales, just below the surface off the coast of Chile. The animals didn't respond or move when the scientists approached them in the boat, but once the boat brushed against a whale, all six quickly woke up. We now know that a group of sperm whales will doze with their tails down, suspended and drifting upright for 10-15 minutes. The whales don't breathe or move at all during their nap!

BOTTLE ROCKET

Put a plastic bottle of water on a table and tell your prank victim you will be magically placing a coin in the bottle without removing the lid. Put a coin under the bottle, put a towel over it and say 'Shazam!' Remove the towel and lid. When the victim looks inside, squeeze the bottle!

TAPE ESCAPE

Place sticky tape so it half-covers the spout of a cold tap. When your victim turns on the water, it will direct a spray straight at them, then blast the tape loose! Don't stick around to watch the results.

NT METEORS

PEAK METEOR SHOWER PEEK!

This incred composite photo collection of the annual Gemini meteor shower was taken at Ming'antu Observatory in China on December 14, 2018. Also known as the Geminid meteor shower, the cosmic event occurs every December as Earth crosses the orbit of 3200 Phaethon, a mysterious space rock. Some people believe 3200 Phaethon is a rock comet, while others think it's a near-Earth asteroid. It sheds debris when it makes contact with Earth's upper atmosphere, forming the shooting stars we see in the sky. You can view the shower without equipment if the sky is clear and dark! Lie on your back, look straight up at the sky and give your eyes roughly half an hour to adjust to night vision. Also avoid looking at artificial light, like your phone screen. The number of meteors you can see will increase as the night progresses. The peak time is around 2:00am, where 100 or more meteors can be seen per hour! The Geminids are visible in both hemispheres, but are visible earlier in the day in the northern hemisphere. However, it can still be seen long before midnight across Australia, leaving plenty of time to enjoy the view.
